4. The king wanted an answer to his question.

Ans 1. The king wanted an answer to his question.
 2. The king pitied the hermit and stayed on to help him.
 3. The wounded person was taken good care of by the king.
 4. The hermit explained that was the purpose of the king's life.

The king was very glad to have made peace with an enemy so easily and to have gained him for a friend. He not only forgave him but said he would send his men and his own physician to attend to him. The king then took leave of him and went out of the hut to look for the hermit. Before going away he wished once more to beg for an answer to the questions he had asked. The hermit was outside, on his knees, sowing seeds in the beds that had been dug the day before. The king approached him and said, "For the last time, I pray you to answer my questions, wise man." "You have already been answered!" said the hermit still crouching on his thin legs and looking up at the king who stood before him.

"What do you mean?" asked the king.

"Do you not see?" replied the hermit. "If you'd not pitied my weakness yesterday and stayed to dig these beds for me, you would have gone back and been killed by that man. So the most important time was when you were digging the beds, and I was the most important man and to do me good was your most important business. Afterwards, the most important time was when you were attending to that man, for if you'd not bound his wounds, he would have died without having made peace with you. So he was the most important man and what you did for him was your most important business. Remember then, there is only one time that is important-now ! It is the most important time because it's the only time when we have any power. The most necessary person is the one with whom you are, for you do not know whether you will ever have dealings with anyone else; and the most important thing is to do this person good, because for that purpose alone were you sent into this life !"

1 A1) Complete the sentence.

1) So they show

Ans So they show their relation to me and I accept them.

2) Animals do not complain

Ans Animals do not complain about their condition.

I think I could turn and live with animals, they are so placid and self-contain'd
I stand and look at them long and long.
They do not sweat and whine about their condition,
They do not lie awake in the dark and weep for their sins,
They do not make me sick discussing their duty to God,
Not one is dissatisfied, not one is demented with the mania of owning things.
Not one kneels to another, nor to his kind that lived thousands of years ago,
Not one is respectable or unhappy over the whole earth.
So they show their relations to me and I accept them,
They bring me tokens of myself, they evince them plainly in their possession
I wonder where they get those tokens,
Did I pass that way huge times ago and negligently drop them?

Ans

A2) Answer the following :

What does the poet tell about the animals' attitude towards society in general?

Ans The animals do not kneel and or submissive to anyone, not even an ancestor who lived years ago. They are unaffected by all these. They are neither content nor unhappy about the whole earth and its conditions. They just show all the simple good qualities inherent in them to maintain a good relation with their fellow creature, man.

A3) Poetic device.

Nor one is demented with the mania of owning things.

Ans Nor one is demented with the mania of owning things. - hyperbole

- Walt Whitman

You can use the following points while appreciating the given poem.

- Title
- Name of the Poet
- Rhyme Scheme
- Figures of speech
- Theme/Central Idea

Ans Walt Whitman in his poem 'Animals' highlights the virtues in animals in contrast to human beings. There is no particular rhyme scheme followed by the poet who is known for his unconventional free style of poetry writing. The figures of speech that caught my fancy are repetition and alliteration in the lines, 'I stand and look at them long and long', also 'Not one kneels to another'. I liked the poem for its message about the virtues which are still inherent in animals from the time of creation but are latent in the poet who realizes their greatness and wants to turn back and live with animals again.

Q.9 Expansion of Idea.

1 If you chase perfection, you will find excellence.

Ans .
